How did the Fund perform in the last year?

Class F Shares underperformed its benchmark, the Russell 2000 Growth Index, for the 12-month period ending September 30, 2025.

All Fund sub-advisers detracted from performance for the reporting period due to the prevalence of riskier, more speculative assets within the benchmark outperforming. The Informed Momentum Company LLC was the smallest detractor due to momentum and growth style tailwinds. Jackson Creek Investment Advisors LLC was hampered by value style headwinds, which partially offset tailwinds to momentum. The momentum strategy of the quantitative investment management (QIM) team within SEI Investments Management Corp. weighed on Fund performance given its larger-quality bias, which outweighed momentum style tailwinds. Polen Capital Management, LLC's (Polen) strategy hampered Fund performance on quality style headwinds and poor stock selection within the information technology and industrials sector. Geneva Capital Management LLC (Geneva), which was hired as a Fund sub-adviser in June 2025, underperformed the benchmark because of quality and low volatility headwinds plus poor stock selection within the industrials and information technology sectors.

From a sector perspective, weak stock selection results in industrials and information technology were outsized detractors from Fund performance for the period. Sector positioning had a modestly positive impact attributable to an underweight to healthcare.

Fund performance for the period benefited from its tilt towards the momentum factor, but was hampered by its quality bias as low-quality stocks significantly outperformed the benchmark. The post-"Liberation Day" rally which was extended by artificial intelligence (AI) euphoria presented a meaningful headwind to Fund performance, but it we believe that this lower-quality rally will not persist.
