How did the Fund perform in the last year?

Class F Shares underperformed its benchmark, the Russell 1000 Value Index, for the 12-month period ending September 30, 2024.

The Fund's more significant value tilt compared to that of the benchmark detracted from performance during the reporting period as relatively cheaper stocks underperformed more expensive shares. Stock selection within the health care and industrials sectors also weighed on Fund performance. However, stock selection within the utilities sector benefited performance.

Among the Fund's sub-advisors, Cullen Capital Management, LLC lagged the benchmark over the reporting period due to an underweight to the financials sector, as well as stock selection within the energy and health care sectors. LSV Asset Management's underperformance was attributable to its strong value tilt, an overweight allocation to the energy sector, and stock selection within the industrials sector. Brandywine Global Investment Management, LLC (Brandywine) lagged the benchmark due its strong value tilt, as well as stock selection and an overweight position in the health care sector. Stock selection within the financials sector also detracted from Brandywine's performance, while holdings in the utilities sector had a positive impact. SEI's Quantitative Investment Management (QIM) Team's factor-based value strategy underperformed during the period due to its strong value tilt, stock selection within the consumer staples sector, and an overweight to the energy sector.
